Eden To Try Again To Gain Geneva Accord

East, West Deadlocked On Both Indochina And Korean Peace Issues

GENEVA (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden flew back to Geneva today for a final effort to break the East-West deadlocks in Indochina and Korea.

Arriving by special plane from London, where he consulted Prime Minister Churchill and other cabinet members, Eden declined to comment on secret instructions he was reported to be carrying.

Before leaving London, however, he agreed with an opinion expressed by other Western sources here that the next week or two will be decisive.

It was expected Eden's instructions might determine how much longer the Geneva conference would last. Today's secret nine-party session on Indochina opened its fifth week.

The United States already has made it clear to Britain and France it is ready to end the East-West talks on Korea and Indochina at any time.

INFORMED quarters said this was one of the questions Eden had planned to air at the special Cabinet meeting today in London.

This afternoon's secret nine-party session on Indochina will be the first to get down to basic issues.

Western observers said the next few days should show whether the Communists actually are willing to negotiate a settlement or merely are stalling to gain military advantages in the Indochina fighting.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, who returned from Paris this morning, was reported to have talked over the general Indochina situation with French officials.

Western delegates were agreed the chances for a settlement on either Indochina or Korea seemed slim.

United States already has reached the conclusion the Communists are stalling while they prepare for a major offensive against the rich Red River delta in North Indochina. The British have insisted, despite the dim outlook, that the talks should be continued until every possibility has been exhausted.

The French, for internal political reasons, have felt the West must avoid any appearance of being too hasty about breaking off negotiations.

It now appears the Western powers are approaching the time when they must decide on some sort of deadline.

The United States was under-

2-Way Radio Now Helpful In Factories

SYRACUSE (AP)—The two-way radio is moving indoors. It saves factories a lot of money, but makes it hard for a workman to disappear behind a stock of boxes for a restful smoke.

Cops and cabbies have been linked for some time with their home L's by high-power two-way communications systems. And that has made great changes in crime-fighting methods and taxi operations.

Then, nine months ago, low-power two-way communication jobs were freed from government restrictions. Today the little talking systems increasingly are becoming part of the factory scene.

General Electric engineers here say that putting two-way systems on indoor trucks and other factory transportation systems has resulted in making four trucks do the work of five.

Trucks carrying materials or finished goods can be quickly directed hither and yon as needed in vast factory areas.

Savings in the cost of buying and maintaining trucks is sizable. Perhaps even greater is the saving on cost of operating labor.

And then there's the matter of the fork-truck operator who used to become lost around the factory somewhere—for about the time it takes for a smoke. In the old days he "didn't know where they wanted" him. Today, he either answers when the superintendent buzzes him on the two-way system or thinks up a new reason why he's away from his truck.

Anti-Segregation Rulings Tightened

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court of the United States today tightened and broadened its legal rulings on racial segregation in America.

The highest tribunal in the land ordered the states supreme court to reconsider its refusal to order four Negroes admitted at once to the University of Florida.

The high tribunal told the state court to set aside its judgment and reconsider "in the light of" last Monday's unanimous ruling that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

Last week's decisions applied directly only to elementary and high schools, but it was generally regarded that the court would extend its ruling to all schools supported with public funds.

In another brief order today, the Supreme Court told the U. S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati to reconsider its refusal to order a Negro admitted to shows presented in an amphitheater owned by the City of Louisville, Ky.

A third order told the U. S. Circuit Court in New Orleans to reconsider a case involving the admission of Alexander P. Turcaud Jr., a Negro, to the Louisiana State University.

The Supreme Court also let stand a decision that the City of Houston, Tex., must let Negroes use municipal golf courses on a segregated basis.

In still another order today, the Supreme Court refused to review a decision by the New Orleans Circuit Court that the alt-white Hardin Junior College in Wichita Falls, Tex., must admit six Negro students.

In yet another case involving the issue of racial relations, the Supreme Court rejected an appeal by the housing authority of the City and County of San Francisco seeking approval of a segregation policy in public low-rent housing projects.

As in the Houston and Wichita Falls cases, the Supreme Court

Deadlock Seen Ahead On Ike's Farm Program

Senate Leader Hints Flexible Props May Go In Effect During Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today there is a "possibility" that Congress will deadlock over farm legislation and thus let flexible price supports go into effect under existing law.

Knowland, the Senate's Republican leader, said he doesn't know what is going to happen in the controversy which has found many Democrats and some Republicans lined up behind proposals to continue price props on major field crops at 90 per cent of parity.

But he said "it certainly is a possibility" that the two houses of Congress will fail to agree on a single farm bill.

President Eisenhower has urged abandonment of the present system of mandatory price supports on basic field crops at 90 per cent of parity and its replacement by a system of flexible props ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices said by law to give farmers a fair return in relation to prices they pay for things they buy.

CONGRESS in 1948 and 1949 put on the books a flexible support system, although not in the form the Eisenhower administration has recommended. But it has postponed its effective date from year to year, continuing the rigid 90 per cent props first provided in wartime to stimulate production.

The 90 per cent supports now are slated to expire at the end of the 1954 crop year, and failure of Congress to pass new legislation would permit the flexible plan now on the books to go into effect.

Eisenhower recommended that, to ease the impact of a change to flexible supports, up to $2½ billion worth of crops the government now holds be "frozen" and ignored in figuring support levels. This provision is not included in the 1948-49 legislation.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said he agrees "there's a possibility we might not do anything." But Rep. Hope (R-Kan.), chairman of the companion House committee, said he "can't conceive that the Congress won't do something."

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said he would recommend a presidential veto if Congress votes for rigid supports. Knowland said: "If there is a deadlock in Congress or a bill passed that the President doesn't approve, the flexible supports will still go into effect."

DESPITE the uncertainty over the farm issue, Knowland said he believes Congress will come up with a program of accomplishments that will convince the voters they ought to keep the GOP in control of Congress.

Negro Leaders Plan Drive To End School Segregation

ATLANTA (AP)—Negro leaders throughout the South will petition local boards of education to eliminate school segregation immediately in the first mass followup of the U. S. Supreme Court ruling on segregation.

That strategy was disclosed yesterday after a conference here of leaders of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People from 18 states.

Issuing an "Atlanta declaration," the NAACP officials called for integration at all school levels and advocated Negro teacher assignments and federal aid.

Thurgood Marshall, special legal counsel for the NAACP, and Walter White, executive secretary, were the chief spokesmen.

Marshall, who represented the organization in the Supreme Court arguments, said there would not be "time for imaginary problems" in ending school segregation. He did not estimate how long it would take, however.

HE WARNED against juggling school districts to evade the court ruling, although he said he recognizes the right of school boards to set up district lines.

The NAACP will take up the subject of segregation in other

Both GOP, Dems Take Look At Unpredictable Ohio Poll

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top Republicans and Democrats are taking a hard look at unpredictable Ohio in laying strategy for the fall campaign.

The GOP has a "shirt-sleeve" conference coming up in Cincinnati. Democrats are considering Cleveland as the center of a televised Midwestern cities rally.

Leaders on both sides concede Ohio has been singled out among the key states because: 1. The seat of a Republican senator of prestige, the late Robert A. Taft, is at stake, and 2. Several congressional posts might change hands.

Briefly, here are some campaign activities the two parties plan for Ohio:

Republicans—Regional meeting of GOP National Committee in Cincinnati, Taft's hometown, Aug. 30-31 and Sept. 1. "First meeting I can recall we've held in Ohio," said a party spokesman.

Democrats—A closed TV circuit may be set up in a Cleveland theater this fall. This would permit a simultaneous rally to be held in other Midwest cities, where people would gather in similar auditoriums.

Then celebrities such as Adlai Stevenson could address all rallies on TV, and movie actors in Hollywood could be piped in.

The Democratic national committee also has named, for the first time, a man who will be strictly responsible for helping in the Ohio campaign.

His name is Sam Harrell, and he will act as a "go-between," in the words of one party official, for national committeeman Al Horstman of Dayton and Ohio Chairman Eugene Hanhart of Dover.

Party officials refuse to say publicly just what gains they expect to make this fall.

Privately, though, the Republicans think they have a chance in the districts of Democrats James Polk of Highland and Wayne L. Hays of Flushing.

The Democrats, of course, can't see this at all. They are eyeing in particular some of the big city districts now represented by Republicans.

These include Dayton's Paul Schenck, Canton's Frank Bow and Akron's William Ayres.

Rainfall, Crop Report For County Area

Precipitation for 24-hour period ending noon today—none. River, 2.09 feet.

Normal rainfall for April, this district, 3.52. Actual rainfall last month, 3.90.

Normal rainfall to end of April this district, 13.23. Actual rainfall to end of April, this district, 10.28.

FARM AGENT REPORT CROPS

Weather conditions the past week have been favorable for field work in most areas of the county except some fields that appeared too wet until the last part of the week. It appears that an adequate tiling system would solve the wet condition in these fields.

A majority of the corn is planted. Most ground worked up into a nice seed bed this spring; in fact many fields have been over-prepared. Soil has structure, just as a building. The more the soil is worked the greater the destruction to structure. Good structure means good tilth, waterholding capacity and air movement.

Legume fields not sprayed for spittle bugs are alive with these juice sucking insects. They will probably cut yield by 30 percent.

The cool weather this past week has not been corn weather. Corn that has just been planted is probably better off than that planted early.

Hay prospects are good—start making hay and grass silage now. Practically every winter barley field contains some loose smut. (Black heads). This is not the fault of the weather or fertilization. The fungus causing smut was bought with the seed. Regular treatment of seed will not control it.

Wheat, oat and pea prospects are good.

WEATHER

The weather has been too cool the past week for warm weather crops. The winds have also dried the surface soil in many areas to the extent they are dusty. Crops can use warmer weather and showers this week.

Jury To Consider Traffic Fatalities

Cases involving seven persons will be up for consideration Tuesday when the Pickaway County Grand Jury convenes for its April term.

Included in the list will be two cases resulting from recent traffic fatalities in the district. Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer said the cases set for consideration, and the accusations, are as follows:

Frank Burgett, operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and second-degree manslaughter; Donald Shockey, manslaughter and failure to yield the right of way;

Michael Hatfield, breaking a door entering and petit larceny; Verlin A. McCall, Paul Brobst, Jessie Diles and George T. Brown, breaking and entering and grand larceny.

Red-Led Rebel Force Driven From Nam Tha

Viet Nam Political Setup Tottering, American Aides Now Believe

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—The French high command claimed victory today in a midge siege battle of the Dien Bien Phu type at Nam Tha, in northern Laos.

The French-Laoian garrison vanquished an attacking force of about 400 of the Communist-led Vietnamese after being harassed for six days by continual mortar, machinegun and light arms fire, a spokesman said.

The rebels, outnumbering the defenders 3-2, were reported to have lost 35 men, while the garrison's casualties were "very light."

Nam Tha lies on an eastern tributary of the Mekong River 100 miles west of Dien Bien Phu, the French Union fortress which was overwhelmed May 7. It is 18 miles south of the frontier of Red China's Yunnan Province and barely 50 miles east of Burma's border.

Five more men of the Dien Bien Phu garrison, all Thais, were disclosed to have escaped and reached the safety of a French defense post in Laos yesterday after a long, dangerous trek through jungle and swampland. Five other Thais, natives of mountainous northwest Indochina, had stumbled into friendly camps May 19.

ON THE POLITICAL front, in Indochina, the various religious groups, including the Cao Dai, the Hoa Hao and the Binh Xuyen, announced they will hold a national congress beginning Wednesday. The congress is expected to protest any partition of Viet Nam, an idea which it ascribes to "the colonialists and imperialists" at Geneva.

American diplomats here say Viet Nam's political situation has deteriorated rapidly since the fall of Dien Bien Phu. They contend only bold steps can save the government.

This became known today as a French study of steps necessary to bolster Indochina's defenses neared completion. Washington reports have said this study is expected to open a new phase in French-American talks on possible U. S. intervention in the war.

American diplomats are worried, however, lest the French-sponsored Vietnamese government of former Emperor Bao Dai collapse before outside help can be brought to keep it on its feet.

In overwhelming French Union forces at Dien Bien Phu, the Vietnamese death a heavy blow at the morale of the Vietnamese-backed Bao Dai's administration.

As a first measure to bolster it, the United States will recommend soon that Bao Dai hurry home from Europe to take over active leadership again. The Viet Nam chief has been on the French Riviera for more than a month awaiting the outcome of the Geneva conference on Asia and negotiations for complete independence which his officials are carrying on with the French at Paris.

Although the period is extremely critical, most of his cabinet ministers also are at Geneva, Paris or elsewhere outside the country. Several important decisions have not been carried out.

Before Bao Dai left for France, he signed decrees creating a war cabinet with wide powers and assigned Premier Prince Buu Loc to draw up plans for a provisional national assembly. The cabinet, at its first meeting, ordered total mobilization of all men between 21 and 25 for military service.

Due largely to sharp differences between government officials, no steps have been taken yet to put these measures into effect.

Memorial Day's Rites Set For 'Soldier's Glen'

Monday Ceremonies To Include Parade, Cemetery Services

"Soldier's Glen", the spot dedicated last year to Pickaway County's veterans, will again be the center of the district's annual Memorial Day services in Forest Cemetery. Observance of the holiday will be next Monday.

Climaxing a parade through the city and a preliminary memorial ceremony at the High Street Cemetery, services at Forest Cemetery will begin as soon as the parade moves to the honored location near the soldiers' burial ground.

Monsignor George O. Mason, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, will deliver the principal address. Invocation and benediction will be delivered by the Rev. Donald Mitchell, pastor of Circleville Presbyterian Church.

Musical selections will be by the Circleville Community Band, Circleville High School Marching Band, and the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps. Following the services at "Soldier's Glen", the memorial program will be extended to the nearby Soldiers' Lot by members of the Legion and Co. 1 of the 166th Regimental Combat Team, Circleville's National Guard unit.

ARRANGEMENTS for the day will be in charge of Co-Chairmen Fred Boggs and Mack D. Parrett, veterans of World War II and World War I respectively. Fred L. Donnelly, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, will serve as Grand Marshal for the day's activities.

With Donnelly in charge, the parade will form at Memorial Hall at 9 a. m. One-half hour prior to that time, members of the Legion's drum corps and firing squad, along with other veterans, will assemble at the same location and march to the High Street Cemetery for the preliminary memorial program at that burial ground.

Included in the main parade, along with these units, will be additional veteran groups from all of the nation's wars, veterans' auxiliary organizations, D.U.V., D.A.R., Blue Star Mothers, Gold Star Mothers, Boy and Girl Scouts, Girl and Brownie Scouts, and all other patriotic groups desiring to join in the march to Forest Cemetery.

Final instructions on formation of the parade and a complete program for Memorial Day were to be announced later this week.

MARKETS

GRAIN FUTURES

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Grain drifted lower in very quiet dealings on the Board of Trade today.

In the case of July soybeans the downward trend was more than just a drift, running to more than seven cents, but that was an exception to the general market. It reflected further weakness in soybean meal.

More rains over the weekend in much of the winter wheat belt created selling in that cereal. Oats were quite weak at times as 57 cars of cash oats arrived, largest for many weeks.

Wheat at noon was 1/4-3/4 lower, July $1.95 1/4, corn 1/4-1/2 lower, July $1.53 1/4, oats 1/4-3/4 lower, July 70 1/2, rye 1/4-1/2 higher, July $1.01, soybeans 1/4-3/4 lower, July $3.43 1/4, and lard 2 to 3 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $6.47.

Woman Says She May Have Seen Killer

FRANKFURT, Germany (U.P.)—A German woman has told American investigators she possibly saw the slayer of three American Army officers in Passau shortly after the axe killings eight years ago.

Deputy U. S. Prosecutor William D. Canfield said today the woman saw the man leaving the death house when a fire started that dark January night.

The woman reported the man stopped for a moment and threw some object into the Danube River before continuing on his way to "Ambassador's Villa" which adjoined the death house. Canfield said investigators later recovered an axe from the river at the spot pointed out by the woman.

James M. Leech, then an Army captain, of Lima, Ohio, who has been accused of the slayings by Canfield, slept at "Ambassador's Villa," the deputy prosecutor said. Leech denied the killings.

Canfield said he was informed of the woman's statement by an investigator who questioned her, but he did not remember seeing her statement in the files of the triple murder case.

Legal Roadblocks Stall Next Move Against Lima Ex-Gl

FRANKFURT, Germany (U.P.)—Legal roadblocks stalled action today in the 1946 ax-arson slayings of three American Army officers in Germany.

U. S. Chief Prosecutor Thomas L. Canfield announced the present evidence was not legally sufficient to ask the extradition of James M. Leech of Lima, Ohio, a former Army captain.

Leech, accused last Friday by Canfield's deputy of the savage murder of the three officers, Jan. 7, 1946, in Passau, Germany.

Leech has denied the killings. Informed in Lima of Canfield's announcement, the Ohioan said: "All I know about this is what has been supplied me by the newspapers. I have nothing official on this latest move. When the final decision is reached, I'll still be here."

LEECH FACES three charges of murder, three of intentional manslaughter and one of arson in the deaths of Maj. Everett S. Cofran, of Washington, D. C.; Capt. Adrian L. Wessler, of New Rochelle, N. Y.; and 1st Lt. Stanley M. Rosewater of Omaha, Neb. The charges were filed by Deputy U. S. Prosecutor William Canfield, of Hampden, Mass., after the Army had turned over the files of the case to U. S. High Commission legal authorities.

Canfield had indicated he intended to go ahead with a request for extradition of Leech but Canfield stepped in and stopped him.

Canfield declared the evidence "is not in its present form legally sufficient" for such a request. The chief prosecutor said his office apparently would not be able to forward the case to the U. S. high commissioner for at least three weeks.

He said gathering evidence required for extradition, its evaluation and preparations to meet legal requisites will take that long.

"For example, all statements of pertinent witnesses must have been made under oath before they are acceptable in an extradition hearing in U. S. federal courts," Canfield said.

"In studying the case over the weekend, I discovered most of the statements were not taken under oath," the chief prosecutor continued. "The witnesses are now in many parts of the world."

An Army spokesman said files on the case had been turned over to Canfield's office in order to get legal advice "on a case that was never closed and had been under constant review by Army agents."

In announcing the filing of charges against Leech, Canfield said he felt there was a "very strong circumstantial case" against the Ohioan, deputy to Cofran when the latter was town commander of Passau.

Members of Canfield's staff poured out to check on 25 witnesses in various parts of Germany. Other members waded through seven filing cabinets filled with data on the case.

He had been admitted to the hospital as a surgery patient.

Mr. Greenlee was born Sept. 11, 1890 in Gallia County, a son of James and Alda Smith Greenlee. His wife, Gladys, preceded him in death on Dec. 25, 1953.

Surviving him are two brothers, Tom of Coldgrove and Rodney of Columbus, and a foster brother, George Walters of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery. Members of the Circleville city police force will serve as pallbearers. Friends may call in the funeral home after 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Lamp Works Plans Temporary Letup

Circleville General Electric Lamp Works Monday announced a temporary 10 percent reduction in production because of excessively high inventory of finished lamps. This is not to take place until June 7, according to E. G. Grigg, plant manager.

The temporary lay-off will affect approximately 10 percent of the employees. No men are included in the list. The girls are classed as temporary employees, since they all have less than one year of service. The lamp plant's employment will continue at approximately the same level as a year ago, Grigg said.

Officer Charles Smith Is Named Head Of New CD 'Rescue Squad'

Appointment of Circleville policeman Charles Smith as head of a newly organized civil defense "rescue squad" topped a list of announcements made Monday by Bernard Tait, Pickaway County CD director.

An air raid siren and a proposed CD rescue squad truck were topics high on Tait's agenda. He also said CD drills in county schools may start in the fall.

Tait also stated that plans are being made for the purchase of the siren in the near future. He said it will be of the same type used in Columbus and can be heard for 25 miles.

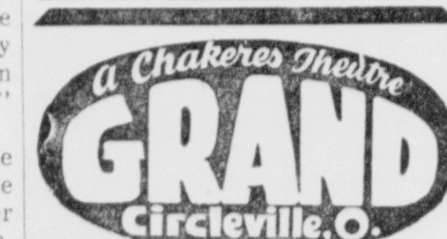

"We will either install the siren on top of the courthouse or Masonic Hall," he explained. "Probably, we'll choose the courthouse."

TAIT SAID further that although there is enough money for the siren purchase already available, there was another item which would require "quite a bit" in extra funds. He was referring to the rescue truck which he estimated would cost about $4,000. He pointed out that, under the present CD arrange-

Deer Me, He Says

The Battle For Asia

Communists Apparently Sure Of Their New Hold In Asia

(Editor's note: William L. Ryan spent six weeks in Southeast Asia, traveling to Indochina and the nearby countries endangered by a Communist sweep southward. He then went to Geneva to check his findings at the Geneva conference. This is the first of four articles this week on the prospects in "The Battle for Asia.")

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
GENEVA (AP)—There is not the slightest indication at the Geneva conference that the Communists will accept anything but surrender of the West in Asia.

Apparently, they are sure communism is on a victorious march, with the decisive battle for Viet Nam all but behind them. The Russians are calling the tune here, even preparing the speeches of the Communist Vietnamese representatives in the Russian language.

After a month of talk, there seems no prospect of anything but obstruction and deadlock. The Russians exude the confidence that they hold the trump cards.

Communism is relying heavily on a drive to turn Asian nationalism and Asian fears into potent weapons against the West in a long-term struggle for domination of a continent.

The United States has been losing battles in this propaganda war, though it has not yet, by any means, lost the war. Asian distrust of the West, after a century of colonial domination, is being twisted and turned against the United States in a political-psychological offensive designed to win cheap victories.

The Communists are not concerned with masses now. This war is for the intellectuals, the educated layer of Asians from whose ranks come the raw materials for government and leadership.

In those ranks, America has been losing friends. They are not going over to the Communist side, but in frustration are retiring into a neutral shell. And that serves the Communist cause.

For one who has just returned from Asia there is an atmosphere almost of fantasy here in Geneva. Talk of "united action" in Asia seems removed from reality.

At the moment, prospects seem dim for any Southeast Asia defense system under United States inspiration or protection. That may yet change as the Communist breath gets hotter on Southeast Asian necks. If so, the United States hopes to have the framework of an alliance which those nations can join if they choose.

But in an extensive tour of that vast, underdeveloped, poverty-ridden area I found that, with few exceptions, Asian leaders cling to the view that any involvement in a bloc—however defensive it may be—will make Asia the cockpit for World War III.

With the understanding they would not be quoted by name, Asian leaders spoke frankly of their fears and frustrations in trying to build new nations in an area whose unplumbed riches and geographical position make it a tempting target for Red expansion.

"Those who want to be friends of the United States are falling silent now," an elderly pro-American statesman told me sadly. "It is becoming just as politically unwise in this part of the world to take the side of the United States as it is for you in the states to take the part of Red China."

Asian leaders are alive to the internal Communist threat and have been fighting it consistently. They fear communism. But first of all they fear a new general war.

Because of this, however mistakenly, they fear the United States. They do not believe Americans have any aggressive designs on them. But they have a dread that actions of the United States in a head-on clash with the Soviet Union might plunge Asia into the most dreadful of all wars.

They insist they have won substantial victories over their domestic Communists and can keep them in check, short of invasion from China.

But many of these anti-Communist leaders themselves help Communist propaganda along. Anti-colonialism is the cement holding these new nations together. Many a leader is not adverse to transferring the former fear of Britain, France or Holland to the United States. Several frankly admitted this to me.

Certainly the two largest nations, India and Indonesia, would have to be counted out of a Southeast Asian alliance as matters stand now. And Burma likely would cast a cautious look northward. That leaves Pakistan, Thailand and Malaya, short of a defense line pushed all the way back to the Pacific island chain.

Frog-Jumping Record Is Set

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP)—Lucky Lager, with three prodigious leaps totaling 16 feet 10 inches, set a new frog jumping record and won owner Roy Weimer $1,000 yesterday in the 27th annual contest based in Mark Twain's famous story.

Lucky Lager bettered by 8 inches the mark set in 1944 by Maggie.

In Twain's story "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," a villain loaded the favorite with buckshot and it never got off the ground.

Further Godfrey Surgery Delayed

BOSTON (AP)—After studying Arthur Godfrey's year-old operation on his right hip, specialists have decided against further surgery for at least three months.

The TV-radio star flew here yesterday in his own plane for a detailed examination by Dr. Otto Aufranc, his surgeon, and Dr. Joseph Barr, chief of the orthopedic service at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Dr. Aufranc reported afterward there is "an almost normal range of motion in the operated hip." He advised more time should be given for corrective exercises and training in walking with crutches.

POLIO INJECTIONS

THOUSANDS OF second grade school children in widely scattered sections of the country have had the first of a series of three polio vaccine injections. Now the same groups are being given a second shot—a booster—and three weeks hence, the third.

The belief and hope of Dr. Jonas Salk, discoverer of the vaccine, and of the physicians and scientists who worked to make the test possible, is that close to 100 per cent of these children will have lifetime immunity to poliomyelitis.

The dilemma was harsh for parents who were asked to give written permission for the youngsters' participation in the test. Despite assurances from authorities from the United States Public Health Service on down, many parents found themselves willing to heed the warnings of a Sunday evening radio spieler that the vaccine was a killer.

The Public Health Service and the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis could only point to the unblemished record of trial inoculations. Among the 8,000 human beings who had been given injections—5,000 of them school children—there had not been a single bad reaction. Each batch of the serum is tested three separate times.

In some areas of the country, a certain percentage of the injections are what medical men call "blanks," that is, some harmless fluid, such as salt water. No one will know until later who is given the actual vaccines and who blanks. Comparisons of the occurrence of polio will be made later. Results of the mass inoculations, which will involve nearly a million school children, will not be definitely known for a year.

PARTY-LINE ALERT

THOSE WHO MAY have been curious as to whether party telephone lines are as popular with listeners as they are alleged to have been in days before television and other modern attractions now have a sort of rural listener rating which indicates that they are.

When the party-line bell rings, those who are hooked on this pre-TV cable, it seems evident, spring to the receiver to learn if something of catastrophic importance has occurred. Civil defense authorities have been remiss in not including a party-line organization of volunteers in their first line of rural defense.

When an unidentified motorist telephoned the sheriff's office at Monroe, Mich., that he had seen a man's body at a country intersection, the sheriff discovered that 30 persons who had listened in to the party-line call had beat him to the scene, but had been unable to find a body.

More searching, directed by the law this time, finally resulted in discovery of a straw-filled dummy, complete with a mop of red hair and shoes, in a ditch.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Robert E. Asher, until recently of the State Department, stated the broad objectives of the economic side of the American Foreign Policy as follows:

"We want economic conditions in the free world which will attract peoples and governments toward the democratic systems of political freedom, as opposed to totalitarian systems like Soviet communism."

That foreign aid had that design has been clear since the enunciation of the Marshall Plan at Harvard in 1947. This has cost the American taxpayer between $5 billion and $6 billion a year since then. The expenditures of these vast sums were supposed to bring us allies. In 1954, it can be said that its objectives have not been achieved.

If anything, neutralism as between ourselves and Soviet Russia has been on the increase the world over, particularly among the countries we have aided. (In this connection, it ought not to be forgotten that our gifts to Soviet Russia during World War II came to at least $11 billion.)

Gifts are one phase of the problem. Another is the increasing emphasis on tariff reduction and upon changes in customs procedures. This can be in practice even a greater gift than a credit under a program of aids. For instance, those funny little automobiles that are beginning to appear on our roads, made in Great Britain and now being sold freely in the United States, can provide Great Britain with a better trade balance.

It is trade not aid. Selling at a lower price than American cars, these bantams can seriously affect the American automobile market because they are non-competitively manufactured. In fact, American capital is being exported to European countries to produce this commodity using low-wage labor and less favorable working conditions.

Senator George Malone heads a committee of the Senate which is investigating this particular problem, especially the relationship of American industry to war, should World War III occur. This investigation is of singular importance but has been overshadowed by a lot of nonsense.

Mr. Asher makes a further point which could involve this country in a peculiar share-the-wealth concept on an international scale. He said:

"We have a special interest in the economic strength of our partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and of the countries on the periphery of Soviet power. In the North Atlantic Treaty area we want economic conditions which will enable the NATO countries to devote a substantial part of their resources to the common military effort for as long as is necessary, without preventing improvements in their standards of living. In countries on the periphery of Soviet power we want to eliminate economic weaknesses that threaten political stability and invite Communist subversion."

Such a program is so enormous that it is hardly conceivable in practical terms. It would start with the stabilization of the currency of each of these countries as the only way to protect the economy of a country is to stabilize its currency and to increase values. The program is, of course, sound in principle even though too costly if the NATO countries are true allies. It is cheaper than having another war, which would cost at least as much as World War II, which was more than $300 billion plus about $100 billion for aid since.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

THE ROAD ran on. It grew darker. Todd turned on his lights and Joan sat watching these unwinding their way for them. Now the stars were picking out and all the sky had grown dim and pale and distant.

Todd said, "There's a village ahead."

"Yes, I see it."

"Want to stop?"

"If it looks nice."

"I mean to eat."

"All right."

They came to the village. It had a dinner before which several trucks were lined up.

"Good sign. Maybe we can get a steak here," Todd said.

They could. The place was neat and clean, gaudy with cheap bright tables and noisy with a blaring radio. But the steak was sizzling hot and tender, the coffee was fresh and tasty, the French fries crisp—and none of the truck drivers, on their high stools before the counter, gave a second glance to the two at the table in the far corner.

Out in the night again, Joan snuggled against Todd. He felt so warm! She slipped her hand under his on the wheel and left it there. That was warm, too. Big and warm and strong. She thought, "I love Todd's hands."

"How far now?" she asked.

"You said you wanted to wake up the first morning in an old New England town."

"I know. But how far is that?"

"About twenty miles. Maybe twenty-five." He looked down. She could feel his glance gentle on her.

"Tired?"

"No."

They drove on. It was really dark now. The stars were silver, twinkling specks on a cloth of black velvet. The hills had crept closer and nestled around them on all sides. Joan spoke suddenly.

"Let's bring up our children in the country."

"On a farm?"

"Yes."

"Isn't that a revolutionary idea?"

"I don't know. I don't think so. I love the country. So do you, Todd. Remember our walks all around the mountains of Zurich?"

"I certainly do."

"And Chur? And Arosa? That was the first trip we took."

"That was when I told you I loved you and then I promised I wasn't going to say it again until we got home."

"You didn't, either. I nearly died! I practically had to propose to you myself on the boat."

He gave a little chuckle.

"There was that walk to Annaberg, too," she went on, "where we had apple juice when we finally reached the hotel at the top of the mountain, and I was so out of breath I could hardly drink it, and so mad because not a single grandmother in the crowd was puffing the way I was."

He chuckled again. "And don't forget the William Tell country where we climbed the Rutli."

"I'll never forget any of it."

"No. Neither will I. We have a lot of shared memories, you and I, do you know it?"

"And we're going to make a lot more. Which gets me back to what I said a minute ago. Let's make some in the country. Oh, Mapleton's all right, Todd! It's a nice town. But it's getting terribly crowded. The schools are crowded. The village is crowded. Why, it's hard to find a parking place anywhere there any more!"

"So we move to a farm where we'll have plenty of parking space. Okay!" He pressed her hand under his. "Add it to our list of things we're going to do. Another trip to Europe. A trip out to Arizona to visit Don and Elaine. And now a farm in the country."

Joan said, "Well, we can dream, can't we?"

Silence again. The wind blew cold through her window and Joan wound it up. Todd said, "Nearly there, Jo-Jo. I see lights. There's a hotel at this place. Mike told me about it, so I sent a telegram this morning and reserved a room." Then, abruptly, he stopped the car.

Joan turned her head to look at him inquiringly. "What?" she asked.

"How do you feel, honey?"

"About what?"

"Me. Everything."

"Oh!" She deliberated. Then she said, "Cozy."

"Cozy?"

"Well—safe."

"That's better."

"Sure, I mean."

"That's still better."

"Oh, Todd! Cozy—safe—sure—What difference does it make what words I use? They all mean the same thing!"

He leaned close to her. "What do they mean?"

"They mean," she said softly, "that I love you."

He turned her hand and dropped a kiss in her palm.

"We'll go on, then."

She nodded.

It was not strange entering the unfamiliar inn with Todd that night. It was not strange going up to their room together. It was a little strange that it wasn't strange, Joan thought. And yet—why should it be? For so long they had known each other. For so long they had loved each other. For so long their minds and hearts and lives had traveled along close parallel lines. Now they were merely merging.

It was Tuesday, the day after the Fourth of July. Todd and Joan had been back from their honeymoon since last Thursday and this morning he had started on his summer course at Columbia.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — A disturbing spirit of repression, censorship and trampling on individual and state rights has become increasingly evident at this session of Congress. It resembles the "blue nose" and puritanical urge to re-make and reform society which led to enactment of prohibition and other arbitrary statutes during and after World War I.

Indeed, it seems that every great conflict promotes movements of this kind, whether they assume the form of tapping a private phone or the Supreme Court's abolition of a social and educational system such as that erected so laboriously and painfully in many Southern states.

Although the Brownell demand for a wire-tapping authorization and the Warren opinion on school segregation are not closely related in their effect, they spring from the same sympathy for federal regulation, reform and straitjacketing of human behavior.

IN PAST — Under Roosevelt and Truman, this philosophy undertook to revise fundamental economic laws. The federal government tried to appropriate complete control of business, industry and finance, including an attempted seizure of the steel mills. It sought to redistribute wealth, to "yardstick" the charges which private industry might ask for its products, to fix prices and allocate quotas.

It guaranteed to bring the Promised Land to each individual. It offered minimum wages, pensions, old-age benefits and health insurance. It sponsored a "welfare state" which critics as-sailed as "socialistic," and which the voters repudiated, in part at least, at the 1952 polls.

Now, in a continuing and off-shoot effort, numerous New Dealish members have introduced measures to regulate and restrict the individual's very appetites and conduct—what he may read and see and drink and smoke. It would transform his nonworking hours into a grim and colorless existence, if not worse.

BETTER EFFECT—House and Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committees, for instance, have hearings on the Langer-Bryson bills to prohibit beer, wine and liquor advertisements in newspapers, magazines and on broadcast media. Although Congress is far behind in its serious work, especially the White House legislative program, each group will devote three days to these proposals.

Rep. John D. Dingell of Michigan, second-ranking Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, would extend this same bar to advertising of all kinds of tobacco—cigarettes, cigars, pipe mixtures, chewing and snuff. Other measures would curb distribution of certain comics and magazines. Extreme pacifists want to prohibit manufacture and sale of all toys, weapons and children's books dealing with war.

It is doubtful if any of these things will become law, although the same comment was voiced about Carrie Nation's rampages. But they are supported by earnest and outspoken people and organizations. Members are filling the Congressional Record with favorable petitions, signed by thousands of voters. An anti-liquor advertising measure was defeated in the Senate Committee by only a 7-6 vote in 1952.

MONOPOLY—Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, West Virginia Democrat and extreme New Dealer, demands action against newspaper ownership of radio and television stations. He says that newspapers own almost one-third of the nation's TV stations. He has placed the matter before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Monopoly.

Kilgore nowhere makes the charge that newspapers betray their trust, or that their TV operations are harmful. But he says he has "serious concern" over a possible "threat of monopoly in communications."

In short, whether their prejudices are directed toward education, law enforcement, smoking, drinking, reading, radio, television, toy guns, comics or advertising, the "blue nose brigade" has re-formed ranks and is on the march again.

Ashville Garden Club Holds Flower Show In Hedges Home

Mrs. Link Brown Is New President

Ashville Garden club members held a flower show in conjunction with a regular May meeting of the club in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hedges.

No prizes were awarded in the non-competitive showing, but members enjoyed comparing the artistic values of the arrangements as well as the different varieties of flowers exhibited.

Mrs. Wright Noecker presided at a business session, during which a slate of officers for the 1954-55 club year was presented by the nominating committee.

Officers are elected as follows: Mrs. Link Brown, president; Mrs. George McDowell, vice president; Mrs. Rennie Sowers, secretary, and Mrs. Ethel Valentine, treasurer. Mrs. H. O. Caldwell and Mrs. Walter Hedges were elected as delegates to a state convention.

Plans were made by the group for an annual June tour. Mrs. Caldwell was appointed to take reservations and members were asked to contact her as early as possible.

During program, Mrs. Kathryn Decker of near Ashville demonstrated how to set plants and told of her trip to New York City, where she appeared on a television program.

Ira Hoover concluded the program with a discussion of new tools and gadgets available for use in the garden.

Household Hints

If you do a lot of cake and cookie baking, you'll find rubber spatulas a great help in mixing and when cleaning out bowls. Their blades come in two widths, one about half as wide as the other; both sizes are useful in the kitchen.

Here's a different kind of snack: Cover slices of bread with processed cheese, thinly sliced. Top with canned apple slices and a sprinkling of brown sugar and cinnamon. Broil until the cheese begins to melt. Serve at once with coffee or tea for grownups, milk or cocoa for small fry.

When you want to measure a full cup of shortening, press the fat firmly into the cup so there are no air spaces, then level off with the edge of a table knife or a spatula.

Use distilled or rain water in your steam iron to prevent rust or lime crust from forming in the water receptacle.

Grease, food and liquids spilled on the kitchen floor, and using rickety chairs and stools to stand on to reach high places, are the main causes of falls in the kitchen. Play safe! Wipe up spills as soon as they are made; use a sturdy kitchen stepladder when you have to reach a high shelf.

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Sen. McCarthy should change his mind and walk out, the senators investigating his fight with Army officials would have the choice of trying to make him testify or of doing nothing about it.

The Wisconsin senator says he will be available for testimony unless something unforeseen turns up.

Because the Constitution says a member of Congress can't be arrested during a session of Congress except for treason, a felony or breach of the peace, the senators might feel they could not legally subpoena him if he refused to testify.

Because he's a senator, they might be reluctant to do anything anyway, although a plain citizen who refused to answer their questions would be nailed with a contempt of Congress charge in a hurry.

Senators have never been eager to use extreme measures on one another. They jaw at one another. Sometimes they campaign against one another, but it's a rare day when a senator is expelled or even rebuked.

This kind of consideration for one another is probably a form of self-preservation. Whatever they do to any one of their number today might be done to any one of them tomorrow.

This kind of regard which senators have for senators is more a matter of you-scratch-my-back-and-I'll-scratch-yours than it is of senatorial courtesy, a phrase which gets thrown around a little carelessly. Among political scientists "senatorial courtesy" has a very special meaning limited to a case like this:

The President nominates a Californian for a government job but fails to consult one of the California senators beforehand. The nominee cannot have the job unless the Senate approves. But one of the senators from California objects, and the Senate does not approve.

Senators, being politicians with a normal appreciation for the value of patronage, like to have a hand in naming a home state man to a government position. For that reason, they like to be consulted, at least, when the President does the picking.

Thus, a Senator can make his feelings be known without using the traditional phrase of objection: "This nominee is personally obnoxious to me." Sometimes the other senators go along with him and withhold their approval, sometimes they approve over his objections. Senatorial courtesy is not an ironclad rule.

Senatorial courtesy started in the first session of Congress. George Washington named Benjamin Fishbourne to be naval officer at the port of Savannah, Ga. But the two Georgia senators had a candidate of their own in mind and objected. The Senate did not let Fishbourne have the job, although Washington protested.

It may seem like a lack of senatorial courtesy when, during the McCarthy-Army hearings, McCarthy says two of the investigating senators are trying to block his hunt for Communists and one of them snaps back that in effect a crack like that is just about what he'd expect from McCarthy.

That may be discourteous, but it has nothing to do with senatorial courtesy in the technical sense. The Senate, which has no rule on courtesy, has rules on decorum. For example, a senator is not supposed to speak in a derogatory

Scoutmaster Gets Boys' Good Turn

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Boy Scouts of Troop 666 did their good turn yesterday — for their scoutmaster.

First they had to get him out of town. They contacted Jim Stevens, sister in Fresno and arranged for her to invite him up there for a visit.

Then they set to work, with parental supervision, and painted his house — a job they knew he had been planning but had postponed to work with them. It helped that a painting contractor was chairman of the parents' committee for the troop.

"We figured that since he'd given so much of his time to us, we owed him a little in return," said 15-year-old Scout Warren Smith.

Man To Attend Own Memorial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Thursday will be a day for Elmer T. Walter to remember — he plans to attend memorial services for St. Louis attorney who died last year. His name was erroneously listed among the deceased.

Everett Hulliverson, president of the Lawyers Assn. of St. Louis, which sponsors the services, said the list had been checked and double-checked before invitations were printed. But through some error Walter's name was included on the invitations, which also carried the names of 42 dead lawyers.

Walter remarked: "I don't know how it happened, but I'm glad to report it is erroneous."

way about another senator or even about his state. But the worst punishment he can suffer is being made to sit down and stay quiet a while, if the other senators vote for that. They don't always do it. Still, that rule applies only on the Senate floor. It does not apply to senators in committees. Some committee rules of decorum are pretty loose.

Sokolsky's These Days

But the predicate of the problem is "Do we have true allies?" At the Geneva Conference it does not appear that the principal countries are true allies in the sense that there is any common program to which they all subscribe.

It might even be said that they are our allies concerning Europe but not concerning Asia. But the two cannot be separated because they are one. This we and the European allies should have learned when Russia incorporated China in the Soviet Union State while we were fussing over the Berlin Airlift, which was a diversion. The danger then is that we expend our wealth to no advantage.

If Mr. Asher's program is official policy, it is necessary to discover what such a program will cost the American taxpayer, how it will affect our own economy, and how many years it is to last. It is not a program to run on a year to year basis.

If it is continuous for decades, it can wreck the American economy by increasing public debt and keeping taxes at punitive rates, which they now are.

Numbers Racket Evidence Is Moot

BALTIMORE (AP)—A numbers case was dismissed here after the defense attorney said the state's evidence "looks like Egyptian hieroglyphics or a photograph of a wrinkled dish cloth."

Attorney Alan H. Murrell referred to a photograph of a white pad which police had dusted to bring out pencil impressions.

Police said Sterling Patrick, 47, had been arrested with the pad in his possession and that it bore impressions of a lottery number written on a previous page.

Magistrate Howard L. Aaron dismissed Patrick, saying a prima facie case had not been made by the prosecutor.

Tide Said Turning Against Joe

CINCINNATI (AP)—The tide is turning against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in the opinion of Corliss Lamont, long-time foe of the senator from Wisconsin.

Lamont said in a speech at the First Unitarian Church last night the televised hearings of the Army-McCarthy row have revealed the senator's methods. The Columbia University philosophy lecturer said McCarthy contributed to what he called the worst crisis in civil liberties in the nation's history.

Air Commission Policy Relaxed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nearly 5,000 college seniors who faced Air Force enlistment or the Army draft now have a new chance for Air Force reserve and National Guard commissions as second lieutenants.

The Air Force is now offering commissions to 4,840 college men with air ROTC training. These were men who had been found to be physically unqualified or who were unwilling to become pilots.

Wives Can Be Somewhat Useful On Pleasure Or Business Trips

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK —If you are planning to go abroad this summer, why not take along something useful? Your wife, for example.
A good sound wife can often perform invaluable services that more than make up for the cost of her passage. She makes a fine talking crutch to lean on in those little emergencies that leave a man helpless.
"Women really do stand up better under travel than men, generally speaking," said Horace Sutton, who has written seven books for footloose folk and armchair tourists.
But this isn't necessarily because husbands are like some fine French wines, too delicate for far journeys, or because wives are like bottled ketchup, durable in any climate.
"I think the real reason is that a man usually goes on a trip for a rest," said Sutton. "He starts tired. But his wife is looking for fun, and she starts fresh and strong."
Under these circumstances a man often becomes short-tempered at travel hardships, whereas a woman, accustomed to getting her own way under all conditions, can evaporate most difficulties with her firm charm.
"A husband will do well to take his wife on his travels, even business trips abroad," said Sutton, "because through her he will be paid more attention."
"American women hold a fascination today for foreigners, who have heard of their independence and their power over men. They want to meet and talk to them. An American wife right now makes a much better good will ambassador for our country than the average husband."
Horace, who is 35, red-haired, and married, served as an Army counter-intelligence agent in the last war. He is travel editor of The Saturday Review. To get material for his latest book, "Sutton's Places," he tripped 100,000 miles through some 20 states and 25 foreign countries, ranging from Finland to Japan. Wherever possible he took his wife, Nancy, along.

"She travels better than I do, too," he admitted manfully. "Wore me down on a hike through a snowfield in the Arctic Circle. On a mountain peak in Switzerland she skipped and danced around. I was panting and dizzy. You know, the altitude."
Horace dutifully samples the local dishes wherever he goes, including cactus candy in Arizona, cold octopus in Italy, dried reindeer and salted coffee in Swedish Lapland, boiled seaweed in Japan.
"Actually, I have a lousy stomach," he admitted, "and I think anybody traveling purely for enjoyment can overdo this exploring of foreign foods."
Here are a few Sutton tips to travelers who want to go abroad, have a good time, and return in reasonable shape:
"Don't start off drinking wine three times a day unless you are used to it. It costs you money to be sick abroad."
"Don't eat three rich, heavy meals every day; in Latin countries limit the number of foods you eat that have been cooked in olive oil."
"Don't use ice cubes in drinks in countries where you must drink only bottled water. Bottled beer is usually all right."
"Travel light. At some railway terminals it is impossible to get porters. The best rule is never to take along more baggage than you can carry yourself without strain."
"Don't try to bring your own civilization along and insulate yourself from the country you're visiting. If you try to measure everything you see abroad by how it compares to what you have back home, travel will only narrow your understanding."
"Don't fret if you don't know a foreign language. It isn't necessary. You will always be able to make yourself understood, particularly if your wife is along."

LONNIE BRINKLEY, condemned to death in Houston, Tex., for the fatal shooting of his 57-year-old wife last October, is shown before and during baptism in county jail. Tears filled his eyes as the Rev. E. A. Munroe prayed for him. Brinkley's son and daughter witnessed the ceremony, believed the first of its kind in American history. It was testimony of the son, Marvin, also shot by Brinkley, that convicted him. The sheet metal baptismal "basin" was made especially. (International)

Persistent Lad Hatches Baby Bird

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Bruce Kavin, persistent for a 9-year-old, has a baby bird today because he insisted that his baby sitter rig up an incubator for an egg he found two weeks ago.
Mary Ann Varga, 27, put the egg and a small electric light globe in a cookie tin.
The other day there was a chirp in the cookie tin. Miss Varga thinks the bird is a meadowlark. She feeds it egg yolk and mashed potatoes — every eight minutes.

Teacher Gives Students Gifts

AURORA, Neb. — It isn't an apple for teacher with teacher Mary Lou Wandersee. It's a picture for student from teacher.
For several years, Miss Wandersee, who teaches in small rural grade schools, has made it a custom to give each pupil a hand-painted water color picture when the school year ends.
A selftaught painter, her sketches are of animals and birds. She says animals are the most popular.

Charcoal obtained from sugar is almost pure carbon.

Judge Condemns Court Whispers

ST. LOUIS —Lawyers should speak right out for everyone to hear in conducting conferences with judges in court, says Federal Judge Designate Charles E. Whittaker of Kansas City.
Whispered conferences in court are poor public relations for the legal profession, Whittaker told the St. Louis division of the Missouri Bar Assn.
Whittaker recently was nominated by President Eisenhower as federal judge for the Western District of Missouri.

Church To Close

CLEVELAND —The 119-year-old First Congregational Church held its final worship service yesterday and prepared to turn over its assets to the Congregational Union of Cleveland for disposal. Church officials said a changing neighborhood caused the institution to lose membership.

Building Blasted

NILES —A dynamite blast ripped a hole in the floor of a building occupied by Tauro Bros. Dump Truck Service yesterday, causing damage estimated at $2,000. Louis Tauro, manager of the trucking firm, said he could give police no reason for the blast.

Youth Is Chased

CLEVELAND —Police chased a young man yesterday who drove a stolen 1953 Cadillac which struck six cars and hit a tree before he fled on foot and escaped. Officers said they believed the youth, described as 18 to 20, had been injured in the chase.

teamwork

WITH THE PASSING of each year, a great number of facts are added to man's increasing store of knowledge. Not over seventy-five years ago a man of superior intelligence could possess a working knowledge of all of science. Now, however, the realm of the known is so vast that it is necessary for men to specialize in order to master one small but deep corner of scientific knowledge.

Thus we have the physician, who diagnoses disease and prescribes medication and treatment. The pharmacist compounds and dispenses. Both the physician and the pharmacist benefit greatly from the researches of the biologist, the chemist, the physiologist, and the physicist, to name but a few. Through the teamwork of the allied sciences, increasingly better medical service for all is assured.

Old Ford Wins Feature Event At Atomic Oval

Jim Oney of Jackson drove away with the feature race at Atomic Speedway Sunday night as the bars were let down on all rules and "hot" cars allowed to run.

Oney drove a battered old Ford with a purring motor to a three-length victory over Gene Conley, of Portsmouth. Bobby Morgan, of Wellston, came in third.

The string of victories of Cincinnati's Gene Thimmes came to a halt as he lost a wheel and spindle in a heat race and was never able to get back on the track. Thimmes' maroon and grey number 42 had won all three previous features at Atomic this year.

The new rules opened things up so that new records were set both for ten laps, 3:09 minutes and the 20-lap feature, 6:29 minutes. All races were much closer than on previous nights.

Oney also won the third heat race, the only other event in which he was entered.

Cincy Crew Feels Better About Trip

CINCINNATI (P)—The Cincinnati Reds' train trip from St. Louis was a much happier one than the journey to the Missouri City.

The Reds had been in the East 10 days, dropping six and winning three, and the prospects against the No. 1 team in the National League did not look too bright. The gloom deepened with a one-run loss Friday.

Then Wally Post brightened baseball prospects for Cincinnati with three home runs in two days. The 24-year-old rightfielder from St. Henry, Ohio, contributed mightily to two straight victories which knocked St. Louis from the top of the league standings.

Post went into Saturday's game with a low .220 average. In four trips to the plate he smashed two of the four Redleg homers as the Cincinnati defeated the Cards 4-2. Yesterday he doubled and homered to drive in five runs, the Reds mauling the Cards 13-6.

The Reds began clubbing the first five Cardinal pitchers with two runs in the first inning, added four in the third, tallied once each in the fourth and seventh, and slugged with five in the ninth.

Roy McMillan shared hitting honors with Post, smashing a double and two singles. Five of the 12 Red hits were doubles, with Jackie Collum, Gus Bell and Ted Kluszewski getting the two-baggers along with the shortstop and the rightfielder.

Harry Perkowski, who gave up a three-run homer to Ray Jablonski in the first and two runs in the third, was relieved by Collum. It was the third straight victory, all in relief roles, for the 26-year-old righthander.

Redlegs Try Using 4 Men In Outfield

CINCINNATI (P)—Birdie Tebbets, the peppy manager of the Cincinnati Reds, says his decision to use a four-man outfield Saturday night against Stan Musial was no snap judgment.

"I had discussed it with key members of my club numerous times," he said. "I've even had Roy McMillan practicing in the outfield for just such sort of an emergency."

He pulled the unorthodox play in St. Louis. It was in the eighth inning, the Reds ahead 4-2. With two out, one on base, and the powerful Musial at bat, Tebbets lifted shortstop McMillan and replaced him with a fourth outfielder, Nino Escalera, who played between center fielder Gus Bell and right fielder Wally Post. There was no one at short.

The strategy was not needed, however, as Musial struck out. But Tebbets indicated he would use four outfielders against Musial, Eddie Mathews, Hank Sauer and Ralph Kiner if a similar situation arises.

"It cuts down the chances of getting an extra base hit," he said "and if the batter should happen to hit the ball out of the park—well you could have nine outfielders and they would be unable to do anything about that."

Tribe Shows Vital Power In Clutches

CLEVELAND (P)—Cleveland's streaking Indians, turning up both clutch hitting and clutch pitching, stretched their league lead to 2 1/2 games yesterday by winning a doubleheader from Baltimore.

Al Rosen hit his 11th home run of the season over the right field fence to tie the second game in the ninth. Art Houtteman, who pitched his way out of five serious jams, banged a double in the 12th, driving in the clinching run for a 2-1 victory.

That was the Tribe's 11th win, their longest string since 1951 when they set a club record of 13.

"Look out, Hun! Here comes the A.E.F.!"

"Don't forget those mittens you promised me, Agnes!"

"Goodbye Circleville, Hello France!"

"Take your feet off them plush seats, soldier! We ain't in them 40-and-8's yet!"

The year was 1918, and the day Tuesday, May 28.

ANOTHER COOKING school has come and gone with 101 modern ideas for the housewives. But nary a soul stood up and offered to solve a long-standing mystery that has had the men-folk talking to themselves ever since the first pioneer decided to doctor up this hamburger.

They sell plastic bottles to spray on perfume, and even the flea lotion for the dogs. And without half trying in these advanced times, you can get a gassed-up can of cream that shoots it whipped all over the jello.

But not a soul can say how to coax that catsup out of the bottle without punching a hole in the bottom!

IF BENNETT CERF, the syndicated writer who does "Try And Stop Me" daily for The Herald, will get in touch with Charlie Diehlman of our staff, we might be able to rig up a June wedding between a groom from Rough-and-Ready and the bride from Knockemstiff.

In one of his recent columns, Cerf told how a student of strange names on the map found a "Rough-and-Ready" in California and "another in Ohio named Knockemstiff." And the columnist went on to dream what a gay wedding announcement it would make if the match could be arranged.

Diehlman cleared up the mystery on the whereabouts of Knockemstiff. He says it's a small but proud community near Chillicothe. But under no circumstances whatsoever will we try to locate "Rough-and-Ready" in California.

MAC NOGGLE, THE district historian, has unearthed the story on how the Shawnee Chief, Tecumseh, was born in 1768 in what is now Wayne Township of Pickaway County.

Before his flaming and courageous career was ended in the Battle of the Thames, in 1813 in Canada, Tecumseh became a name to honor even among his pale-faced foes. And eventually, here in Circleville, they named a cannon after the old chief.

Many of the folks in those days pointed out it was only a fair tribute, seeing as how the warrior was born in these parts—in an Indian village named Kiskapooke, about a mile north of the Scioto River on a stream called Plum Run.

The ancient firing piece was placed on North Pickaway St., near the site of Berger Hospital, and each Memorial Day at day-break they'd fire the cannon to launch the day's activities. Which anyone will admit is a real way to wake up the town.

P.S. Anyone firing a cannon on North Pickaway this Memorial Day is hereby warned that City Council has approved the plan to dig into the laws of this municipality. And somewhere in the pile there's sure to be an ordinance against it.

PRIMARY ELECTION Night

echoes: A reporter phoning Pickaway County returns to Columbus around the foggy hour of 3 a. m. was calling from his home, but the city room at the other end thought the call was coming from offices of the county elections board. Suddenly, at the reporter's elbow, a dog barked into the phone. And the girl at the other end of the line, gasped: "Goodness! WHO was that?"
